

new intern during fall 2012

We are a young architectural firm specialised in passive-, zero- and plus energy architecture. The firm is currently working on a boarding school, office building, several single family houses, the development of standardised models of a plus energy house and more.

During the internship [lasting a semester or 20 weeks] you will work as part of an integrated design process, in a broad area of sketching, detailing and construction supervision. This will give you an opportunity to get to know the entire building process.
